“If we belong to Christ, it's logical that everything we have truly belongs to Him.”

self, of hiding Himself when the Jews threatened to stone Him...[Still, the Church] recommends to our deepest veneration...the cross, the altar upon which our incomparable Victim is immolated. Twice during the course of the year, that is, on the feasts of its Invention and Exaltation, this Sacred Wood will be offered to us that we may honor it as the Trophy of our Jesus' victory; but now, it speaks to us but of His humiliation. God had said in the ancient Covenant: 'Accursed is he that hangeth on a tree' [Deut. 21: 23]. The Lamb, that saved us, disdained not to suffer this curse; but, for that very cause, this tree, this wood of infamy, has become dear to us beyond measure. It is the instrument of our salvation, it is the sublime pledge of Jesus' love for us. On this account, the Church is about to lavish her veneration and love upon it; and we intend to imitate her, and join her in this, as in all else she does. An adoring gratitude towards the Blood that has redeemed us, and a loving veneration of the Holy Cross - these are the two sentiments which are to be uppermost in our hearts during these two weeks...The pervading character of the prayers and rites of these two weeks, is a profound grief at seeing the Just One persecuted by His enemies even to death, and an energetic indignation against the deicides. The formulas, expressive of these two feelings are, for the most part, taken from David and the Prophets. Here, it is our Savior Himself, disclosing to us the anguish of His soul; there, it is the Church pronouncing the most terrible anathemas upon the executioners of Jesus. The chastisement that is to befall the Jewish nation is prophesied in all its frightful details; and on the last three days, we shall hear the prophet Jeremias uttering his lamentations over the faithless city. The Church does not aim at exciting idle sentiment; what she principally seeks, is to impress the hearts of her children with a salutary fear. If Jerusalem's crime strike them with horror, and if they feel that they have partaken in her sin, their tears will flow in abundance.” - On the Mystery and Practice of Passiontide from The Liturgical Year of Dom Prosper Gueranger

"The presentiment of that Awful Hour leads the afflicted Mother [Church] to veil the image of her Jesus: the Cross is hidden from the eyes of the faithful. The statues of the saints, too, are covered; for it is but just that, if the glory of the Master be eclipsed, the servant should not appear. The interpreters of the liturgy tell us that this ceremony of veiling the Crucifix during Passiontide, expresses the humiliation to which our Savior subjected Him-
